Old Business
Second Read on Updates to Resource Allocation Guide	Stacy Gleixner	The group approves updates to the resource allocation guide after a second reading. Next Step: Add grammatical corrections to the Resource Allocation Guide
Foothill 2030: The Blueprint for Success	Stacy Gleixner Voltaire Villanueva Elaine Kuo	The team discusses next steps for the Foothill 2030 blueprint document. They aim to have a polished version ready to share with the college by opening day and get

	Ajani Byrd	board approval in the fall. Feedback is being solicited until June 30th. Over the summer, they will restructure sections, clarify language, add implementation details, and create onboarding documentation. Key changes include centering students more, adding messages from senate presidents, highlighting campus culture and signature experiences, and aligning with the Chancellor's goals on sustainability and digital transformation. The team will also prioritize strategies, develop an implementation plan, and create a more visually appealing public-facing document. Next Step: Restructure and refine the Foothill 2030 Blueprint document to center students' voices, add implementation details, and align with Chancellor's goals by Opening Day Next Step for Marketing Team: Format and finalize the Foothill 2030 Blueprint document for public presentation
Second Read on Updates to ILOs	Allison Meezan Voltaire Villanueva	The meeting discusses the approval of four institutional learning outcomes (ILOs) for Foothill College: think critically, thrive in the global workforce, engage in a life of inquiry, and act with integrity. These ILOs were approved without objection after receiving favorable responses from the Board of Trustees and Chancellor. The discussion then moves to an update on the program review process, with vice presidents presenting on the comprehensive report and budget request. The quality of program review reports is noted to have improved, with increased emotion and engagement evident in both annual and comprehensive reports.

New Business
Program Review Comprehensive Report and Budget Request Update	Stacy Gleixner Bret Watson Laurie Scolari	The program review process at Foothill College has generated valuable insights and discussions across instructional programs and student services. Instructional programs are focusing on scaling equitable classroom practices, connecting students to support services, reducing material costs, and broadening student access through new curriculum designs. Student services have improved data disaggregation, enhanced technology and processes, and increased collaborations. Challenges include communication with majors, scaffolding best practices for addressing equity gaps, and updating the program review template. Budget requests totaling $8.5 million were received, with the largest allocations for facilities and staff. The college is working to prioritize and fund requests within limited resources, particularly for instructional equipment. Next Step Finance Allocation Team: Continue evaluating and making decisions on the TBD budget requests, particularly for facilities and staffing positions

Fitness Center Open Hours	Paulo Verzosa
Committee Reports
Technology Committee	Laurie Scolari	Next Step Simon & Technology Team: Implement new campus signage project based on community feedback
Building, Grounds & Sustainability	Bret Watson	The meeting recaps several completed and ongoing campus improvement projects. These include the addition of ADA-compliant ramps and seating at the football stadium, all-gender restrooms in the library and lower campus, an ADA path connecting middle levels of the lower campus, and a roof replacement for Smithwick. Current projects include a campus-wide signage upgrade, lighting improvements, renovations at the Sunnyvale Center, a new dental clinic, and a decarbonization project for the pool and main campus heating/cooling. Future plans involve maintaining the bamboo garden and implementing a new waste management system. The timeline for the new Olympic-sized pool is set for 2029, with assurance given that there will definitely be a pool.
